Thanks Ward

Is my memory correct?

On 20 June 2024 we lodged our Information Response to SARA Information Request of 7 January 2022.

On 9 July 2024 SARA wrote to you advising that given the intention to construct the Berm in the Forestry Reserve there needed to be further information provided in relation to the 'earthworks' associated with the Berm, in order to satisfy the agency's assessment process.

They requested the receipt of that additional information by 19 July 2024 which I understand was then extended to 26 July 2024 and then 21 October 2024.

I note the Council has forwarded to SARA our application to amend the development approval and that the Council has determined the application change is considered "minor".

While it would be apparent from the information in the 'changed application' material that the issue SARA raised on 19 July 2024 is no longer relevant

However, do you consider that it would be prudent of us to nonetheless, formally respond to SARA's formal request advising them that the issue they raised in their subsequent information request is no longer relevant to the proposed development?

1. Please let me know your opinion.

Plus given that the changed application no longer contains a scope that would embrace the Berm proposal and that in relation to the issue of the location within the erosion prone area, has already been addressed and has not been challenged by SARA am I right to assume that SARA now have an obligation to proceed to determine the material before them and provide Council with their response and that the response date of 21 October 2024 is not a relevant date given that it relates to material that is no longer relevant.

If I am correct-How many days does SARA now have to either lodge a further Information Request or issues their advice to Council?

2. Please let me know your opinion.

Regards

Warren
